

Science For a Changing North II

Laurentian University, Sudbury

February 23-24, 2011

2011 Sudbury Restoration Workshop

Fraser Auditorium, Laurentian University

Speakers Include:

David Pearson, Laurentian University, Far North Science Panel Report - Science Needs
Bill Keller, Laurentian University, Lakes in Ontario's Arctic Watershed
John Riley, Nature Conservancy of Canada, Biodiversity in Ontario's Far North
Andy Fyon, Ontario Geological Survey, Engaging Ontario's Far North Communities
Christine Kaszycki, MNDMF, Ring of Fire (To be confirmed)
Diane Corbett, Director Far North Branch, OMNR, Science and Information Programming
Glenn Nolan, Noront Resources Ltd., Aboriginal Engagement / Ring of Fire
Brent Wolfe, Wilfred Laurier University, Hydroecology of Northern Freshwater Ecosystems
Kathleen Ruhland, Queen's University, Paleolimnology in the Hawley Lake Area
Andrew Paterson, OMOE, Lake Chemistry in the Hawley Lake Area
Chris Jones, OMOE, Benthic Invertebrates in Northern Lakes and Rivers
Michelle Brazeau, University of Ottawa, Microbial Communities and Hg Cycling in Northern Lakes
Derek Mueller, Carleton University, Remote Sensing in the Far North
Sarah Finkelstein, University of Toronto, Paleoclimates and Paleoecology in the Lowlands
Chris Charron, OMOE, Carbon Flux Monitoring in the Lowlands
Tom Johnston, OMNR, Mercury in Northern Fish Communities
Kim Armstrong, OMNR, Broad-scale Monitoring of Northern Lakes
Steve McGovern, OMNR, Rivers in the Hudson Bay Lowlands
Dean Millar, Laurentian University, Permafrost Melt Experiment

Other Featured Topics

- Ring of Fire
- The Future of Mining
- Science/Technology Transfer and First Nations Training
- Far North Land Use Planning
- Hg and Human Health
- Conservation Planning

Networking Opportunities

Feb. 22 (pm) 'Lakes Centre After Dark' at the New Vale Living with Lakes Centre

Feb. 23 (pm) Local food dinner with keynote Norman Yan, York University, "Highlights of the G8 meeting and the Water Forum"

$500 prize for Best Student Poster

Poster submission details and registration information available at www.livingwithlakes.ca

